TWO JUSTICES IN U. S. COURT LAWS-SUIT IS DISMISSED

Action Was Taken by the Marcus Brown Holding Company Against a Hold-Over Tenant in an Apartment House and the District Attorney-Rests on Question of Constitutionality.

Three Judges of the Federal District Court to-day handed down a decision in reference to the Emergency Rent Laws which were passed by the Legislature at a special session called by Gov. Smith at the instance of The Evening World. It was in the case of the Marcus Brown Holding Company against Arnold Pollak, a tenant in the apartment at No. 245 West 94st Street, who refused to vacate when the premises were were $20,122.83, and the rented to another at a higher rate.

The opinions were signed by Judges Learned Hand, Julian W. Mack and Martin T. Manton in the litigation challenging the constitutionality of the New York State Rent Housing Laws.
